Arrival and transport

Participants are kindly requested to make their own international and local travel arrangements. Participants may find it helpful to coordinate their travel to Bern by using www.rome2rio.com.

Getting to Bern

With its central location, Bern is easily accessible by air, road, or rail. If your flight lands in Zurich, Geneva, or Basel, there is excellent rail service to Bern with the Swiss rail company SBB. In both Zurich and Geneva, an SBB station is located inside the airport, allowing direct transfer to trains to Bern. There is a 600-meter walk from Bern train station to the AAQ premises.

Arriving at the Bern Airport

Bern Airport is located 10 km from the city center. The city can be reached by public transport. The airport bus takes passengers to Belp train station. From there, you can take an S-Bahn to Bern main station.

Arriving at the Zurich Airport

You can reach Bern main station from Zurich Airport train station in an hour and 15 minutes by train. Trains with direct connections from the airport to Bern depart every 30 minutes.

Arriving at the EuroAirport Basel Mulhouse Freiburg

Bern can be reached via Basel SBB train station in around 1 hour. Trains from Basel SBB to Bern depart every 30 minutes.

Arriving at the Geneva Airport

Geneva Airport train station can be reached directly from the arrivals hall. Direct trains to Bern depart every 30 mins. The journey takes just under two hours.

Moving around the city
